Who are the Spinster Sisters?

Our charming little corner of downtown Santa Rosa was once a bustling thoroughfare in the heart of Sonoma County. In the 1920s, an Italian immigrant family made this hand crafted building their home and opened La Rose Market on the ground floor. Upstairs, they raised five daughters - two of whom lived out their whole lives in those apartments, watching the neighborhood transform dramatically. We know only a few details about these two sisters, Isolina and Claudina - they were both unmarried, they held jobs in the neighborhood, and they fried a rabbit every Sunday evening for dinner. The name was selected as an homage to these sisters, to women in general, and to the rich history of what is now the SOFA arts district of Santa Rosa.
